Your duty of disclosure

To be read by the Insured Person before completing the application.

Before you enter into a contract of life insurance with an insurer, you've a duty, under the Insurance Contracts Act 1984, to disclose to the insurer every matter that you know, or could reasonably be expected to know, is relevant to the insurer's decision whether to accept the risk of the insurance and, if so, on what terms.

Your duty, however, doesn't require disclosure of a matter:

- that diminishes the risk to be undertaken by the insurer
- that's of common knowledge
- that your insurer knows, or in the ordinary course of their business, ought to know
- as to which compliance with your duty is waived by the insurer.

Non-disclosure – If you fail to comply with your duty of disclosure and the insurer would not have entered into the contract on any terms if the failure had not occurred, the insurer may avoid the contract within three years of entering into it. If your non-disclosure is fraudulent, the insurer may avoid the contract at any time.

An insurer who is entitled to avoid a contract of life insurance may, within three years of entering into it, elect not to avoid it but to reduce the sum that you have been insured for in accordance with a formula that takes into account the insurance fee that would have been payable if you had disclosed all relevant matters to the insurer.

This duty continues to apply until the insurer notifies you that the risk has been accepted. It also applies when you extend, vary or reinstate a contract of life insurance.
