Important information

We cannot accept a notice of intention to claim a tax deduction on any part or full amount of a personal contribution that you've used to start a pension. Where you've partially or wholly rolled over or withdrawn the contributions made to your Suncorp Superannuation account, the maximum tax deduction that can be claimed may decrease.

Up until 30 June 2017, a tax deduction can only be claimed if:

- You are self-employed, substantially self-employed (see definition below), retired or unemployed; where contributions have not been rolled, withdrawn or used to start a pension before receipt of any s290-170 notice.
- You advise the Trustee of the amount you want to claim as a tax deduction.
- The Trustee acknowledges your advice (an acknowledgement will be issued promptly after receipt of this form from you).

From 1 July 2017, all persons under 75, regardless of employment status, can make personal deductible contributions to superannuation up to the concessional contribution limit and receive a tax deduction (people aged between 65 and 74 will be subject to a work test).

Please refer to the Australian Tax Office (ATO) or your accountant for further information.

Substantially self-employed

You are substantially self-employed if less than 10% of your assessable income plus reportable employer super contributions and reportable fringe benefits is from employment as an employee for that financial year.

Eligible employment

'Eligible employment' means an occupation where your employer would normally be obliged to make Award or Super Guarantee contributions to a super fund for your benefit.

Contributions tax

Contributions tax at the rate of 15%[†] will be deducted from the amount of contributions that you claim, less any applicable insurance premiums paid in the relevant financial year. Additional tax may apply in relation to amounts exceeding the concessional contributions cap.

Personal contributions that are claimed as a tax deduction for a particular financial year are subject to the concessional cap for that year. In addition, any excess concessional contributions will count towards the non-concessional cap. To find out what the current cap levels are, go to ato.gov.au/super.

[†] 30% contributions tax will apply for people earning over $300,000. From 1 July 2017, 30% contributions tax will apply for people earning over $250,000.

- We can't accept any after-tax (non-concessional) contributions.
- It may be difficult to find and rollover (combine) your super in the future.
- You may pay more tax on pre-tax (concessional) contributions than would otherwise be payable.
